

I'm proud to announce that Alyssa Yeager, a San Benito High School student, won this year's Congressional Art Contest.

Alyssa's wonderful drawing, titled "Bend It Like Beckett," will hang in the Capitol building for the next year.

I have always felt that art is an important part of a child's education. One of the foundations of scientific discovery is the ability to observe and record what you see.

Alyssa Yeager visited Washington for the unveiling of her drawing in the Capitol.
